

1/11

FIG.1

2/11

FIG.2

FIG.3

A diagram of a cell in interphase. The cell is roughly oval-shaped. Inside, there is a large, dark, oval nucleus. Within the nucleus, there is a smaller, even darker, oval nucleolus. The nucleolus is surrounded by a dense, granular material representing the nucleoplasm. The rest of the cell is filled with a lighter, granular material representing the cytoplasm.

FIG.5

6/11

FIG.6

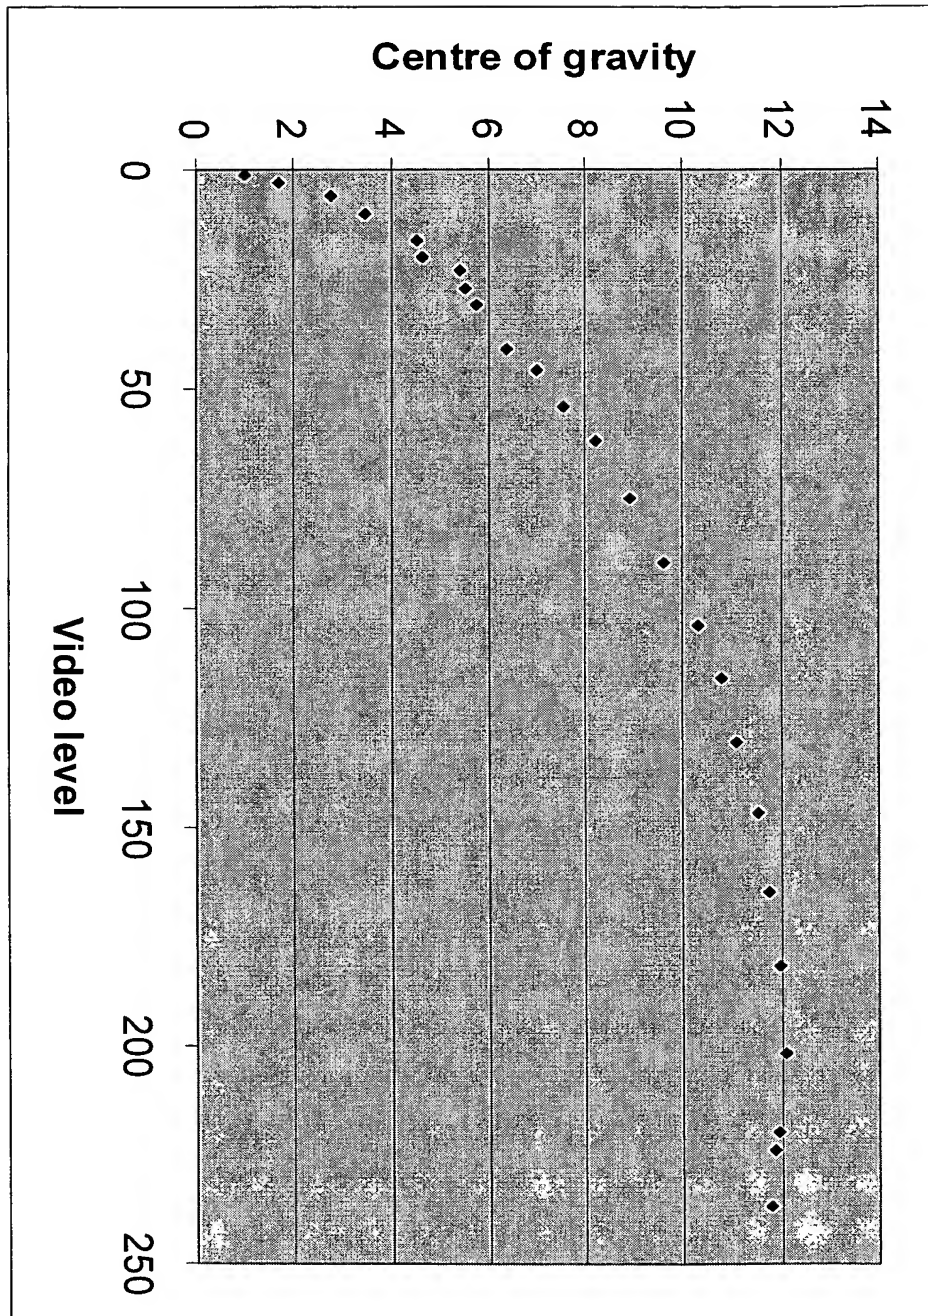

FIG.7

8/11

FIG.8

9/11

FIG.9

FIG.10

FIG.11